Ready to get off the sugar rollercoaster?

How often do YOU find yourself reaching for a sugary snack for a pick-me-up or to satisfy your sweet tooth? How often do you FEEL great about that choice? Probably, pretty rare.

Now is the time to get off the endless rollercoaster of sugar highs and lows! Envision how good it will feel to KICK those crazy, frustrating and uncontrollable cravings - BAM!

Here's YOUR chance. A real chance to gain the upper hand with sugar, and not allow it to control your choices any longer. A chance to feel confident in the food and drink you choose to eat and drink.

In the following are five, just FIVE, easy-to-implement tools to help you change your relationship with sugar. Tools that will help you to naturally reduce those cravings gradually over time.

Don't worry, you won't feel deprived! It is about freedom -- the freedom to EAT FOODS YOU LOVE and have sweetness in your life without the side effects and the guilt.

5 Ways to KICK THE SUGAR HABIT

1. CROWD OUT CRAVINGS WITH WATER.

Hydration is your best ally! Drink a full glass of water the moment you have a craving. Keep drinking water all day. Aim for half of your body weight in ounces per day (ex. 80 ounces if you weigh 160 pounds).

2. FIND THE SNEAKY SUGAR.

Most of the added sugar we eat comes from processed foods like bread, salad dressings, peanut butter and pasta sauce. To avoid this sneaky sugar, read food labels or simply avoid anything that comes in a package and focus on eating real food.

3. AVOID THE FAKE STUFF.

Artificial ingredients affect blood sugar levels and are linked to other serious health problems. If you need to add a sweetener, use a small amount of natural sugar, local honey, 100-percent maple syrup or dates instead of an artificial sweetener.

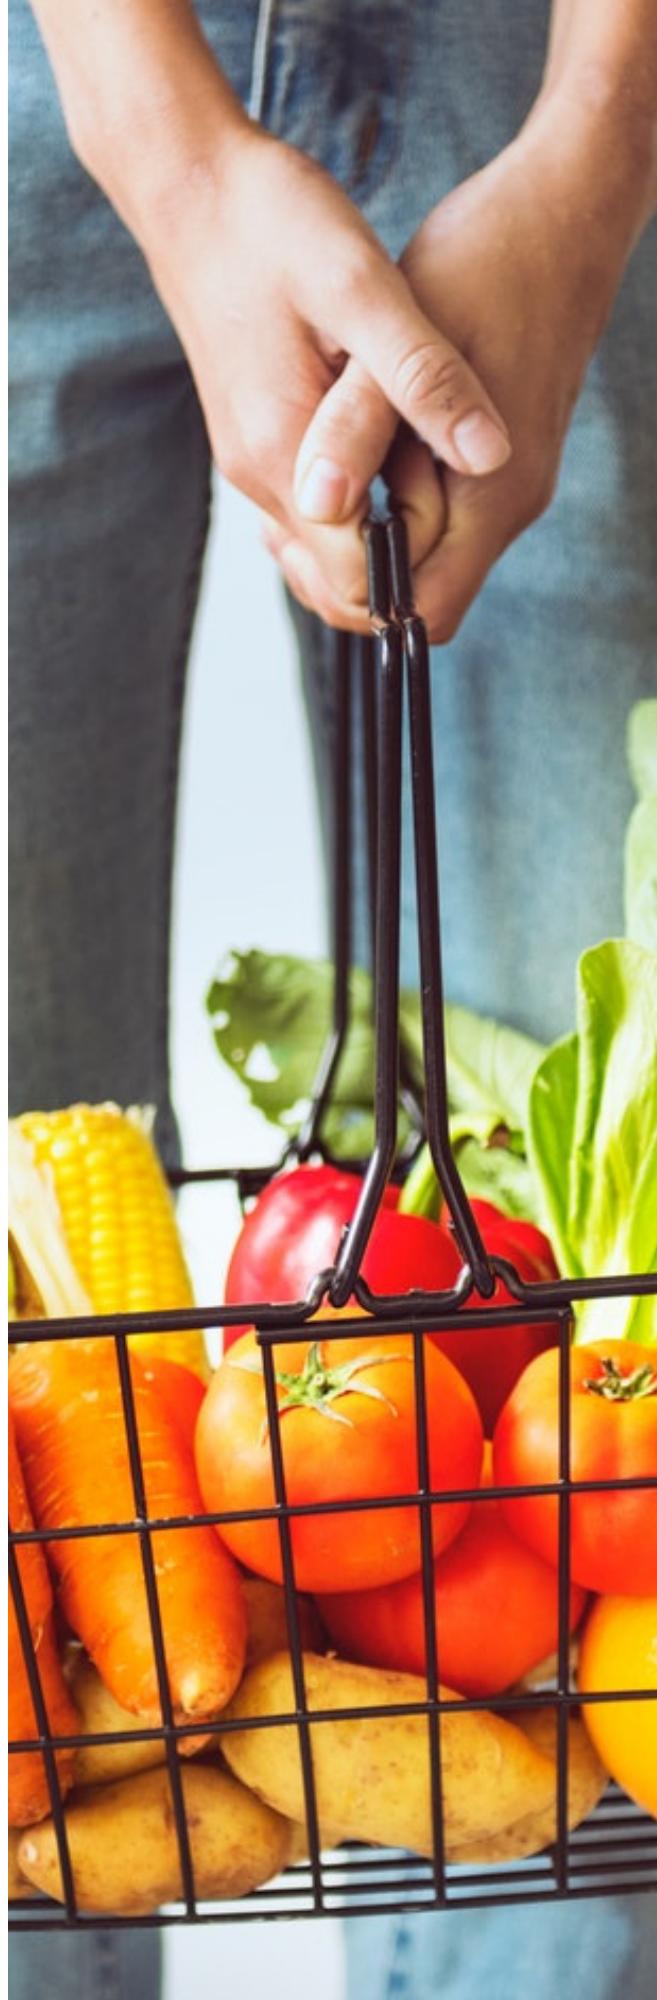

4. VEG OUT

We experience cravings because our body is starved for vitamins and minerals. Add one or two servings of vegetables at every meal. Squash out cravings with naturally sweet foods such as sweet potatoes, carrots, or squash. Yum! The vegetables will "crowd out" your cravings for unhealthy foods, just like that. IT'S MAGIC!

5. GIVE YOURSELF A BREAK AND DISTRACT YOURSELF.

Cravings? Wait 20 minutes to evaluate what you are truly craving. It may not be food! We may crave certain foods such as sugar when we are dissatisfied with a relationship, feel bored, stressed, or uninspired. To distract your brain and those crazy cravings, do something active like take a walk, play a game or clean.
